EPCO Making it Easy to Put TIGERs in Warehouses

New UL listed TIGER™ 400 (HID only) temp light with a handle for easy installation and box with a convenient handhold

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., September 18, 2006—True to its reputation as an easy-to-do-business-with supplier of specialty lighting and wiring solutions, Engineered Products Company (EPCO) has made it exceptionally easy for contractors to hang from a ceiling. The UL listed TIGER™ HID is the only temp light with a handle for easy installation and a box with a handhold for easy unloading, stocking and transporting.

In addition to the unique handle and handhold, the TIGER 400 HID Temp Light features a shroud around the lamp's arc tube that is containment-tested in accordance with ANSI C78.387, rated for use as an open luminaire, and offers superior energy savings and HID lamp performance. It meets the 2005 National Electrical Code (NEC) for luminaires that use metal halide lamps. Typical applications include warehouse lighting, industrial facility lighting, or high-bay applications where temporary lighting is required. In addition, the TIGER's distinct, pink mogul-base clearly identifies it as a luminaire that uses only a Type-O lamp.

In kicking off a promotion to introduce EPCO's new TIGER, CEO Jack Schuster said, "We think this is not only a great way for distributors and contractors to get a 'handle' on temporary lighting, but also a pretty 'bright' idea that makes sense for construction projects."

Until December 31 or while supplies last, for every qualifying sales order, EPCO is adding a limited edition radio controlled CordLight™ car to each TIGER HID promotion carton. The premium is also included in Contractor Grade CordLights, Part Number 16000-Promo and Deluxe CordLights, Part Number 16010-Promo.

EPCO's "Guaranteed Sale" policy offer allows distributors to return unsold CordLights or HID Temp Lights for 100 percent credit. For more information about TIGER 400 HID, the Temp Light promotion or other EPCO products, visit www.engproducts.com or call (800) 336-1976.
